LARKSPUR STUDIO

Annual report 2026

Highlights

A strong year for the studio: we delivered 48 projects for 31 clients, opened a second workshop and grew revenue by 18 percent. Printed catalogues, packaging and signage remained our core, while the new digital archive service doubled its users.

Letter from the director

Dear partners, thank you for another year of good work together. Our team of fourteen designers and printers moved into the riverside workshop in March, which let us take on larger runs and keep every proof in house. The quick brown fox of our logo now greets visitors at both doors.

Next year we will invest in recycled stock, shorter delivery times and a client portal for approving proofs on screen. We look forward to working with you.

Mira Castellano, Director

Selected projects

Harbour Museum catalogue

A 240-page exhibition catalogue printed on recycled stock, with a searchable digital edition for the museum's archive.

Orchard & Vale packaging

A new family of boxes and labels for a cider maker; the cartons fold without glue and ship flat.

City library wayfinding

Signs for four floors and a children's wing, in two languages, with tactile lettering at every entrance.

Archive scanning service

Over 12,000 pages of letters and drawings scanned, straightened and made searchable, so researchers find a name in seconds.

Our people

Fourteen people work at the studio: eight designers, four printers and two producers. Two apprentices joined in September. Everyone took part in the summer workshop on sustainable inks.

Plans for 2027

1. Move every catalogue to recycled or certified stock.
2. Cut the average delivery time from nine to six working days.
3. Open a client portal for approving proofs on screen.
4. Grow the digital archive service to 50,000 pages a year.
